For Nuclear Medicine Specialists as Legacy Providers in Theranostics

v.3

February 2024

WORKING TO PROMOTE AND ADVANCE THE PRACTICE OF NUCLEAR MEDICINE FOR BOTH DIAGNOSIS AND THERAPY

Australasian Association of Nuclear Medicine Specialists

PO Box 73 Balmain NSW 2041 Australia | ACN 158 642 267 | ABN 711 586 422 67

Introduction

The rapid expansion of theranostics has led to a requirement for both (a) the determination and recognition of appropriate training and experience in already-qualified individuals (“legacy providers”); and (b) the development and implementation of theranostics training as part of the Nuclear Medicine Advanced Training Program managed by the Committee for Joint College Training in Nuclear Medicine of the Royal Australasian College of Physicians (RACP) and the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Radiologists (RANZCR) (“CJCT in Nuclear Medicine”).

This process to formally assess and certify training and experience of already-qualified individuals is being undertaken by the Australasian Association of Nuclear Medicine Specialists (AANMS) in conjunction with the CJCT in Nuclear Medicine.

Performance of theranostic procedures requires essential competency in several essential areas, including:

- (i) detailed understanding of scans of both the molecular imaging diagnostic and therapeutic agents;
- (ii) detailed understanding of both normal biodistribution of agents and image interpretation;
- (iii) translating the diagnostic scan appearance into an assessment of the likely efficacy of radionuclide therapy; and
- (iv) practical experience in assessing patients, managing therapy delivery and short- and long-term side effects.

Certification is based on training and experience predating the Legacy Provider Certification Application submission date. However, this may be supplemented by additional prospective training as detailed in the application. It is proposed that this pathway will be discontinued in 2030. Prior to this there will be regular opportunities for Nuclear Medicine Specialists to apply for legacy certification. Application rounds will be timed to the CJCT meetings, which formally occur twice a year.

PLEASE NOTE:

- (i) The CJCT plans to commence approval of prospective training in theranostics from 2025 as a component of Advanced Training in Nuclear Medicine
- (ii) This certification program is not intended to alter access to items which are currently listed on the MBS as of 1 July 2023.

Eligibility

As theranostics is a component of the specialty of nuclear medicine, only those specialists who are medical practitioners registered with either AHPRA or the NZMC as nuclear medicine physicians or specialists (hereinafter collectively referred to as “specialists”) are eligible for certification for theranostics under the legacy provider certification process.

The AANMS will check the status of each applicant.

The AANMS Theranostics Committee and/or the CJCT in Nuclear Medicine may contact the supervising specialist(s) listed on this application for further information and/or clarification relating to this application.

Application and Documentation

For a specialist in nuclear medicine to apply for certification in theranostics the attached application form must be completed, signed, and sent with evidence of payment of the application fee to:
